Rachael Bull, PHS Senior, Murdered; Death Shocks and Saddens Princeton

Although police conducting the investigation are still waiting for the report of a pathologist for the exact cause of death, it is believed that 18-year-old Princeton High School senior Rachael K. Bull was electrocuted Friday afternoon in her bedroom at 294 Mount Lucas Road.

Police arrested David A. Logan of South Amboy, a 26-year-old unemployed television repairman, at the scene and have charged him with homicide. On Monday, Superior Court Judge A. Jerome Moore refused to set bail on Logan, who is a former mental patient. Judge Moore cited the likelihood of a conviction for his ruling.

Detective Norman Servis of the Township police confirmed that Sayreville police have conferred with Township detectives about the lamp-cord electrocution death in 1977 of 21-year old Deborah Hawkes of Middlesex, who was found under similar circumstances to those of Miss Bull.

A woman in her early 20s in East Windsor in the same year was awakened when an intruder attempted to apply wires to her while she was sleeping—he was frightened off—and Savannah, Ga., police report three unsolved electrocution cases there with similar settings in 1978. No deaths were involved, police said.

Township police had rushed to the Bull home on Friday, responding to a 2:20 call. They believed a robbery was in progress. As the patrol cars arrived, Logan tried to leave through the front door but his way was blocked by Det. Frank Boccanfuso. He retreated and bolted out the side door—into the arms of Lt. Servis. "Call an ambulance. The girl needs help," Lt. Servis reported that Logan told him.

Upstairs, police found Rachael, nude, tied to her bed. She was lying face down, her feet tied to the bottom of the bed, her arms bound behind her. A man's T-shirt had been pulled over her head and tied around her neck.

Ptl. Jerry Offredo and DeWitt Boice of the First Aid and Rescue Squad immediately tried to resuscitate Miss Bull with CPR. There was no response. They were in contact with the Princeton Medical Center while the victim was being transported there. Doctors worked on her further, but she was pronounced dead at 3:10 by Dr. Thomas Cortelyou.

Township police report there were no marks on the victim's neck, no cuts. She was not beaten, they said. According to Lt. Servis, the only marks were several small burns on either side of the body.

The frayed ends of a lamp cord were found on the floor nearby. Township police said that the cord had been cut, then split apart and the insulation from both

Driving Habits Change, Vacation Plans Altered As Drivers See Gasoline Shortage Accelerating

"I'm constantly looking at the needle. As soon as it gets to a half, I fill up — and I'm not picky anymore. I don't care what kind I get."

A lot of drivers like Becky Cross of Hopewell have their eyes glued to their car's gas gauge these days. For most, driving is no longer carefree.

It has become a challenge. A compulsion, almost, to find a station that is pumpino gas, and thereby avoid what sends chills through the heart of every driver today — a tank less than a quarter full.

Indeed, a psychology professor has come up with a list of what frustrated drivers waiting in gas lines should do to keep their cool. "Most people sitting in cars waiting for gas are frustrated, inconvenienced and very, very annoyed," says Dr. Lewis A. Leitner of Stockton State College.

Further evidence that things have turned upside down comes from a report of a Pennington service station attendant, who reported that he had been upbraided by a motorist for washing his windshield.

To find out how — and if — the shortage has inconvenienced Princeton area residents, TOWN TOPICS asked: "What effect has the high cost of gasoline had on your driving habits or vacation plans?"

"It's affected my driving habits terribly," commented Ms. Cross, a typesetter for Princeton University. "I stretch everything so I can do it in one trip. I used to go shopping a lot. I don't do that anymore." Then she added what proved to be a common reaction: "It is not so much the price of gasoline but the availability."

As for vacation plans, she reported that her parents are in South Carolina and she and her family were planning to drive down this summer. "Now we'll probably fly. In the long run, it may be just as cheap," she sighed, "what with the wear and tear on the car plus the high cost of gasoline."

"I drive v-e-r-y carefully now. No more jack rabbit starts," said Marge Muller of U.S. 1, like Ms. Cross, a typesetter for the university. "I've definitely cut my driving. I figure out what I have to do for the week — like this week I have to visit my father in Elizabeth and that will use a quarter of a tank — so I know the following week I have to be careful. My car takes only Shell, and Shell is 89 cents a gallon."

Why only Shell? The engine of her brand new car — a small model — blew at 3,000 miles and she was off on something that irritated her as much as the gas shortage. But that's another story.

"They lie, you know about the gas mileage," she blurted out. "They don't get anywhere near what they claim. Vacation? I haven't even thought about vacation plans."

Linda Auerbach of Kendall Park, a non-driver viewed the gas shortage through sociological eyes. Said she: "It's tested out response to a crisis. Whether a crisis exists or not, we acted as though it didn't. What if there had been one? I think we're playing a game as much with ourselves as the gas companies are with us. We're irked at having to discipline ourselves."

Ms. Auerbach said that she doesn't own a car, doesn't believe in them and feels she doesn't have sufficient need to drive one. "The day I have to drive, I'll move to Europe."

Fred Ebert, a University student, whose field is mechanical and aeronautical engineering and physics, observed that after commuting to New York about twice a week, he now is able to find gas only about four hours a day. "I'm not always available at those times. Now I go about once a week. It's not the price that bothers me, it's the unavailability of it." He added: "I don't mind paying for it; I feel it's only gone up proportionately with everything else."

There's been no effect on his vacation plans, he said, but he isn't sure about his job. "I hope not. I have to commute 30 miles one way to get to work."

Figures released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics comparing consumer prices this winter with those 12 years ago support Mr. Ebert's contention that gas prices have risen proportionately with other products.

Gasoline is up 134 percent, the report finds, but margarine and sausage have gone up even more and sugar is up 170 percent, coffee 257 percent. In contrast, the price of new cars has increased 62 percent since 1967, while television sets, largely because of Japanese competition, have gone up only three percent.

How high will the price of gas have to rise before drivers change their driving habits? A dollar a gallon," says T. William Gallaway of East Windsor, a sales clerk at Princeton Clothing.

The shortage has had no effect on his vacation plans, but he adds: "It's a pain in the rear end otherwise. It's not so much the high price as trying to get it."

IT'S NOT THE PRICE...Like others in the area, Becky Cross (left) and Marge Muller, typesetters for Princeton University, are resigned to the price of gasoline. Getting it is what they are more concerned about.

Gasoline Shortage

Tom Dorrance, an engineer who lives on The Great Road, replied, "A big impact," when asked what effect the shortage has had on him. "Not so much vacation," he continued, "as it has brought around the realization of the situation we're in once again."

"I use the car very little today -- notice I'm on my bicycle. I might add it is a good thing having a gas shortage. The sooner the better. The less severe the impact will be."

What about Sacrifices? Are people willing to make personal sacrifices to ease the shortage? Yes and no, according to an Eagleton poll conducted in New Jersey. Thirty-four percent agreed that saying the energy problem can be dealt with by tightening belts and giving up a few luxuries most accurately describes how they feel.

The same percentage, however, felt the problem can be dealt with by cutting back on waste while maintaining current standards of living. Eighty percent believe the oil companies have holding back on oil and gasoline.

A philosophical Donna DeBronzo of Trenton, a legal secretary in Princeton, observed, "I guess we don't realize how much we've been spoiled by the car." Nowadays, she says she tries not to take the car out during the week. "If something is within walking distance, I walk. I don't take it out for lunch anymore -- only on weekends and then only if I have to. When I can walk, I walk. Maybe it is better for us physically, but financially it is still the pits."

"I don't know what I am going to do about my vacation plans. I was going to drive out to California with a friend. We may take the train now. It sure takes away from seeing the United States having to go by train."

He Walks to Work. Maybe the DC-10 will affect them, he quipped, but for the moment, Tim Desmond, a clerk at Skirm's Smoke Shop on Palmer Square, says the gas shortage has not changed his vacation plans. "My driving habits, yes. I walk to work now." (A little over a mile from his Laurel Road home). "I drive occasionally but not that often," he added.

Basically, her driving habits haven't changed, reports Ann

Odd-Even -- Agala

A sense of deja vu pervaded the Princeton area -- and much of the rest of the nation this week -- as lines leading to service stations grew longer and longer. To no one's surprise, the odd-even system of dispensing gas that was first placed in effect in 1974 has been reactivated.

Scheduled to start Thursday, it will automatically halve the length of the lines by making it legal for station owners to sell gas only to those with even numbers as the last digit on their license plates on even numbered days of the month, and to odd-numbered plates on other days. Those with vanity plates fit into the latter category.

Expectations are that it will also be illegal for a driver with a tank more than half full to be given gas. Currently no interstate agreement has been announced on what out-of-state drivers can expect when their plate numbers do not match the day of the month.

Sangillo of Cranbury, a university security guard. "There no way to cut down," she moaned.

"I have to go to work; I still have to go to the grocery store. Where I live, you can't take public transportation." Shortage or no, she said she is still planning to go to Virginia on her vacation.

"I'm more conscious of how much energy I'm using in terms of cost and availability," says hardware store owner Irv Urken of Plainsboro. "The whole idea of waiting in lines again ... looks as if we didn't learn our lesson the first time."

He added that he is definitely going to look for a new car that will get better gas mileage. He hasn't thought about his vacation yet, but if he goes, he said, "I'll probably fly somewhere."

A Bus Is the Solution. Don Underhill of Kendall Park considers himself lucky: he lives near the bus line and takes the bus into work from Kendall Park to Princeton, where he is manager of Cousins Liquor Store. "As far as driving," he said, "I'm in the market for a new car and I'll definitely be looking for a small car."

William Sneed of Ewing, a tow truck driver for the University (where he is known as "Captain Hook"), said "sure it has," when asked if the high price of gas had affected him. "In the first place, I don't have the money to buy it. I can't get enough to go to work -- all the stations are closed. I cut back whenever I can. I'd say I drive half of what I used to." His plan to go to Maine for the summer, he says, has been scrapped.

Less affected is Don Crosby of West Windsor, assistant manager at Landau's, who reports that his wife drives an

Another one who hasn't personally been affected that much is Flavio Buono, 341

I never did like to take a trip in a car; I don't like to drive that much." Also unaffected are his vacation plans: he is flying to Europe in the summer.

Seven Options under Study for Redesigning Business District to Cure Parking Problem

The problem of parking resolved or not, the Borough is plunging ahead with its study of ways to revitalize the central business district. The planning process continues this Thursday at 8 in Borough Hall, when the steering committee meets again with the professional consultants to discuss seven different design alternatives for the CBD.

The same people are scheduled to confer again next Tuesday night, same hour and place, to whittle the seven alternatives down from two to four which can be presented in detail to the public at a meeting set for Monday, July 9. After that, said Borough Mayor Robert Cawley, "I would hope that the steering committee will make a final decision" to settle on one design plan.

"Obviously," he continued, "there are some opportunities for conflict. At the very end, we may even have two variants opposed to each other. But I hope not."

The alternatives being weighed this week and next follow what Mayor Cawley described as "a continuum, ranging from one extreme which provides for maximum development and then tries to park everyone in the CBD to the other extreme of relatively light development."

Princeton Community Housing's plans for as many as 126 units for the elderly are included in some of the CBD plans being presented. In others, the assumption is made that the PCH development could go forth at a site outside the CBD.

What Do We Want? Mr. Cawley sees the CBD development questions coming down to two issues: "It may be that some alternatives just aren't feasible," he said. "To put the PCH development outside the CBD is a feasibility question -- there has to be a site for it. It would be irresponsible not to resolve the PCH site problem as part of this plan."

The second issue, in the mayor's mind, is "among those feasible, which ones do we wish for our community? What kind of a CBD do we want?"

The alternatives, as presented in preliminary form by Venturi and Rauch, the Philadelphia-based planning firm, offer a good deal of leeway. At either extreme, however, the figures seem to suggest the need for some sort of parking garage or garages to offset the current Borough deficit of long-term parking and also accommodate the increased parking demand that would accompany any sort of development.

The planners' estimate for the most minimal business development would locate PCH housing on the Hulfish lot and provide for limited expansion of Palmer Square Incorporated and the library. Assuming that most of the long-term parking needs could be satisfied with fringe lots connected to the central business district by a shuttle bus system, the planners still calculate that a two-story garage would have to be constructed on Chambers Street to house 250 to 300 cars. But if Princeton wants to provide all its parking within walking distance of the CBD, then the Chambers Street garage might have to be four stories high, and another garage on the south side of Spring Street -- five stories high -- also would be needed.

TOPICS Of The Town

The Other Extreme. If the community opted for the fullest development of the business district, assuming Palmer Square would add another 105,000 square feet of office space, and 55,000 square feet of retail space, as well as 80 more hotel rooms, then parking demands would be on the order of those considered last year, when the 800-car garage was proposed to span Spring Street and connect with Witherspoon.

"The highly dense proposal may be a little too dense," the Mayor said, offering his own first impressions of the alternatives. "I don't think it will fly."

The consultants themselves pointed out in their most recent report that "some alternatives are included primarily for purposes of information and comparison." the task of the steering committee, added Mayor Cawley, "is basically to figure out which ones we should throw out."

Once the Committee whittles the list down, and finally decides on one design plan for the business district, the next step would be to design the specific structures that would implement the plan. That brings the discussion back to the inevitable parking garage. "We'll have to have several public meetings in September," said Mr. Cawley, "and maybe then we can start the design of a garage by late September or early October, assuming that a parking garage is part of the plan."

Deficit Shrinks, But Why? At last week's steering committee meeting the question of the Borough's parking needs was addressed once again. Once again, that question was not entirely resolved, though progress was made.

At issue was just how large a parking deficit Princeton has at this time. A year ago the Barton study estimated that deficit to be on the order of 800 parking spaces. This year a study conducted by the firm of Alan M. Voorhees and Associates estimated the deficit for long-term parking at 240 spaces. What could account for such a discrepancy?

John Wroble, representing the Voorhees firm, told the steering committee that the Barton study had used national averages in determining Princeton's parking needs. "There's a serious question of whether their demand figure is truly representative of Princeton," said the parking consultant. He added that Barton appeared to have double counted the demand of some people who both live and work in the downtown area.

That might have resolved the discrepancy, but it did not. Mr. Wroble's figures and assumptions were scrutinized by various members of the steering committee and challenged on numerous occasions.

Spaces Not Counted? Alan Wallack of the steering committee pointed out that the parking consultant had not included 10 available spaces behind his law firm's building on Chambers Street. "There's one spot behind Cousins Liquors near the loading dock where I always park when I go in to get liquor."

Mr. Wroble pointed out that the space has a No Parking sign and would not be known to the average motorist. "But that's one available space not being counted," replied Mr. Wallack, "and I suspect there are others."

Ralph Hult of Hult's Shoes wondered if the survey took into consideration the contention of some businessmen that retail sales in the community are low, and that the current demand for parking may be unrealistically low as well.

Ann McGoldrick, one of the Vandeventer Avenue residents opposed to last year's garage proposal, responded to Mr. Hult: "You can't tell what latent demand for parking is without an economic study -- we don't know that business is that bad."

Charge, Counter-Charge. Eric Mihan, proprietor of the English Shop, took a shot at Mr. Hult: "May I say that business is very good in Princeton -- my business is up 10 percent this year." Mr. Hult fired back: "My prices are up 15 percent so my business is up, too."

Finally Mr. Cawley asked for the steering committee's approval of the Voorhees report's assessment of the parking deficit. With that number agreed upon, he explained, the planners could proceed with the development of the preliminary alternatives.

Richard Godfrey of Madison Street asked for more time. "I just got the report this morning at 8," he said. "Maybe we could have another person from the consulting firm at the next meeting to at least answer questions."

Alan Frank of Langrock turned to Mayor Cawley: "Bob, we've been through all these questions for the past 25 years. Either we have a parking deficit or we don't." Cawley replied: "Well, it makes a big difference whether that deficit is 800 spaces or 600 or 200."

Shovel in the Ground. "Let's start with 200. Let's at least put the shovel in the ground," said Mr. Frank.

That, in fact, had already been done. The meeting was adjourned and members of the planning firm distributed copies of the report outlining the preliminary alternatives—all based on the 240-car parking deficit as outlined in the meeting.

PLANNERS TO MEET Next Two Mondays. The Regional Planning Board of Princeton will meet Monday at 7 in the Valley Road School for public hearings on two applications carried over from the last regular meeting. The Planning Board's next regular public meeting will be the following Monday, July 2. Next week the Board will continue its consideration of the subdivision on Ridgeview Road proposed by David Mayer and Stanley Pilshaw. Also appearing before the board will be Princeton Research Lands Inc., which has preliminary plans for subdivisions at Poor Farm and Herrontown roads and at Mount Lucas and Herrontown roads.

Land Use Welghed. At meetings held this week, the land use subcommittee of the Planning Board contemplated reservations voiced by several residents about the designations proposed for the master plan being formulated for Princeton Township and Borough. Jerome Rose, chairman of the subcommittee, said that the group tended to agree with the objection of Dr. Sam Hamod and other residents to the designation of Witherston Street near Birch Avenue in the Township as residential use only. "It's a zone for mixed use now and maybe it ought to stay that way," Dr. Rose said.

Representatives of Princeton Day School told the subcommittee that 120 acres of their land, designated institutional, might someday have to be sold or leased to generate income for the school. The planners, according to Dr. Rose, seemed inclined to change the designation of most of the land to low density residential. "That's consistent with the land around it," he said.

...But Not Last Winter

Put my snowplow
in the sun—
Wow! You should have seen it run!

The pleasant period of sunshine we have had since the first few days of June has put just about everything in working order (except, obviously, the nation's gas pumps).

There is still time for June's traditional heat and humidity to make their presence felt but for the next few days, at least, both will be somewhat below normal. Showers Friday are a possibility, the Man says, but the weekend is expected to be generally fair.

Summer will arrive Thursday, precisely at 7:56 p.m. That's one seasonal function that can always be forecast accurately.

Commodities Corporation officials expressed concern that if their land on Mount Lucas Road is zoned low density residential, in accord with the proposed master plan designation, then the company's future expansion could be hampered. "I proposed that the land be retained as commercial, but at a very low density," said Dr. Rose. "That particular land is on a ridge where there's a possibility of drainage problems. Our primary concern is not the type of use there but the density of the use."

MARTINDELL TAPPED For Ambassadorship. Former New Jersey State Senator and Battle Road resident Anne C. Martindell has been nominated by President Carter as ambassador to New Zealand and Western Samoa.

One of the first New Jersey politicians to endorse Mr. Carter in the 1976 presidential campaign, Mrs. Martindell now directs the Office of Foreign Disaster Assistance in the State Department. She represented the heavily Republican 14th district in the State Senate, to which she was elected in 1973.

If the Senate confirms the nomination of the 65-year-old liberal Democrat, before July, she may attend a meeting of the Australian-New Zealand-United States Alliance in Canberra on July 4 and 5.

FRANK REICHE NAMED To Federal Election Post. A Princeton attorney and the chairman of the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission has been nominated to serve on the Federal Election Commission, the agency that oversees the financing of all presidential and congressional primary and general election campaigns.

Frank P. Reiche, of 55 Philip Drive, a member of the Palmer Square law firm of Smith, Stratton, Wise and Heher, expects that his nomination will be confirmed by the Senate within the next several weeks. The nomination was voted out of the Senate Rules Committee by a 9-0 vote last week.

A resident of Princeton since 1962, Mr. Reiche plans to move to Washington over the summer and stay there for the duration of his six-year term. "We like Princeton very much and have hopes of coming back after that," he said.

"It will be an interesting and challenging time," he said. "I'll be there during two presidential elections."

HERE COMES COUNTRY

Ready or Not. Plans are continuing for the Princeton Country Music Festival this Saturday at Palmer Stadium, even though the organizers of the day-long festival are the first to admit they have only a general idea of what they are planning for.

Sponsored by the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, and produced by a firm in northern New Jersey, the Country Music Festival has been a worry on the collective brow of Township Committee ever since it realized that the event could attract as many as 50,000 country music fans from all over the east coast.

Would the crowds overflow Palmer Stadium? Would the sale of beer incite acts of violence and destruction? Would traffic snarl Princeton's streets?

Chamber of Commerce officials say they just don't know how many people would show up in Princeton Saturday. "We heard that they sold 10 to 11,000 tickets last week, and we're told that most of the ticket action will be this week," said Art Abrahams, a coordinator of the event for the Chamber. "The trouble is that tickets are sold in so many different places you can't get all the information easily."

Whatever the size of the crowd, Mr. Abrahams is confident that the other fears about the festival are misguided. "We're not worried about troubles with the people," he says, "but we are concerned about traffic."

Shuttle Bus to Parking? To ease the flow the Chamber is considering setting up auxiliary lots at Princeton's Forrestal campus, and then running shuttle buses back and forth between Forrestal and Washington Road on Route 1. Otherwise parking will be handled much as it is for college football games.

The Jaycees will direct the cars to the lots. The parking fee will be $2. After the University is paid its fee, the Jaycees will keep the remainder.

Though the sweet strains of country music will not begin until 10 a.m., Mr. Abrahams expected that some fans will begin arriving as early as 7.

No Parking During Concert

Township Police have announced that because of the Country Western Festival Saturday in Palmer Stadium, "Emergency No Parking" will be declared from 8 to 8 on nearby streets.

Parking will be banned on both sides the entire length of Hartley Avenue, Sycamore Road, Southern Way, Western Way, Faculty Road, Broadmead, FitzRandolph and McCosh Circle.

Also, on Cedar Lane on both sides from Prospect Avenue to Sycamore and on Harrison from Hartley south to the Township line—again both sides.

Cars parked in violation will be towed away. The streets involved will be posted.

The peak of the arrivals should come between 9 and 12. "Everyone won't be there from the beginning."

The last act is scheduled to go on at 6 p.m., and the show is scheduled to conclude at about 7.

Singling In the Rain? The bands will perform on a covered stage set up at the open end of the stadium and the show will go on rain or shine. "Evidently these people do come even if it rains," said Mr. Abrahams.

"I can't over-emphasize the amount of cooperation we're getting from people like the Princeton First Aid Squad, the police from the Township, Borough, West Windsor, and the University," he continued. "We're anxious to do whatever contingency planning we have to make sure we don't foul up the town."

If all goes well the Chamber expects the event to be a successful fund-raiser, possibly on an annual basis.

The show will include Roy Clark, the Oakridge Boys, Larry Gatlin, the Earl Scruggs Revue, and six other country music groups. Tickets are $10.50.

PEDESTRIAN ROBBED

By Armed Gunmen. A 25 year-old newcomer to Princeton was robbed of $117 Friday by three armed men as he was walking on Franklin Avenue near the Princeton Medical Center.

Police said that the victim was abducted at gun point and then taken for a ride, possibly around the Township. During the ride, police said, he was punched in the face and relieved of his money.

Later dropped off near the high school, the victim walked to police headquarters where he reported the incident at 3:05 p.m. He told police he had just cashed a check at a Nassau Street bank and was walking toward the Medical Center when a car with three black males drove up and asked him for directions. One jumped out and forced him to enter the car.

The car was described as a medium blue, two door sedan. The victim told police that his abductors were all in their 20s.

Police added the victim had just moved into a Birch Avenue residence.

CYCLIST IS STRUCK

On Stockton Street. A 19-year old bicyclist, Marie Sheehan of 216 Russell Road, was struck by a car Friday morning as she was cycling on a bicycle path on Stockton Street.

After being taken by ambulance to Princeton Medical Center, Miss Sheehan was treated for abrasions and contusions of both arms and legs and her right foot and released.

Ptl. William Hunter charged the driver, Antonios T. Soukas, 36, of Trenton with improper exit from a driveway. Mr. Soukas was exiting from a private drive at 65 Stockton and the cyclist was crossing in front of the drive when the collision occurred.

Police said that a brick wall approximately ten feet high surrounds the drive and blocked the view of the driver.

FIRECRACKER THROWN

In Display Window. In one of three malicious acts reported by Township police last week, a firecracker was thrown inside a display window at Home Decor in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The blast damaged the fringes of an $85 bedspread which was on display near the front door. Police said the door was open because of the heat. They added that four teenaged boys had thrown the firecracker.

A school bus parked in the rear of the Russell Hall lot at the Hun School was damaged last week by vandals who sprayed letters one foot high in yellow paint on the bus. Police said there was no message.

Two directional signs in the lot were also painted.

A 1979 car owned by National Car Rental had its right rear window broken with a rock between 2 and 3:30 Saturday morning while it was

Madison St. Block Party Has Message for All: 'Parking Garage on Spring St. Is Unwelcome'

Madison Street will be closed this Sunday for its entire one-block length, from Wiggins to Park Place, while the residents treat themselves to a block party.

Beginning at 1 p.m. with the blessing of Borough police, the block will become a gaiety-decorated playground for games and competitions, singing, dancing and refreshments. Along with the carnival atmosphere of a neighborhood get-together, there is a hint of political purpose to the conviviality of the occasion.

According to Michael Rockland, who lives at No. 8, Madison lies in "the shadow of a garage"—by which he means the proposed parking garage at the corner of Witherspoon and Spring Streets—and many Madison residents have been in the forefront of the opposition to its construction.

Mr. Rockland feels that neighborhood solidarity is important. He also feels that the viability of a downtown area is dependent not only on the vitality of its stores and businesses but also on the people who live there. "The rights and lifestyles of people who live on these streets must be considered a part of the Central Business District," he says.

Mr. Rockland objects to the disregard for residents on the part of "outside" people who make the proposals for

The board will also continue hearings of applications from Claude Raymond, Richard Hankinson, and Joel Greenberg.

DOG FEES GOING UP

In Princeton Borough. With costs of enforcing the Borough's 24-hour leash law rising just like all costs these days, Borough Council is taking steps to increase dog license fees from the current $4 to $7.50, effective next January.

Council introduced an ordinance that would raise the fee at its regular meeting last Tuesday. A hearing is scheduled at the next meeting, Tuesday, July 9.

The Borough must pay the Township for the services of its dogcatcher. It must also pay the pound for a veterinarian's examination and the boarding of dogs that are not claimed by their owners. The leash law requires that dogs must be leashed at all times except when on their owner's property.

Wilson College Alumnae Here Play Major Role In Altering Decision by Trustees to Close It

The announcement earlier this year of the closing of Wilson College, a private liberal arts school for women in Chambersburg, Pa., seemed to be another of the inevitable consequences of trends in higher education. But to a group of determined Wilson College alumnae, including several from the Princeton area, the closing was not inevitable—only unthinkable.

As a result of the alumnae efforts, the college has not closed, but in fact is looking forward to beginning its 111th year of operation in September. "I suppose it was a surprise to many people that the alumnae felt as strongly as they did," said Jane Ensminger of 5 Pin Oak Drive, Lawrenceville, the new president of the Alumnae Association and a member of the steering committee of the alumnae committee that fought to save the college.

"We now have a strong body of people watching and waiting to see what happens next," she said. "We also have a brigade of volunteers on campus right now, doing painting, renovating, filing, telephoning and admissions work."

The president and Board of Trustees of the college announced in February that the school would close at the end of the 1978-79 academic year.

"It came as a complete surprise to us," said Mrs. Ensminger. "In a lengthy interview in December the president had said that everything looked good and that we were turning the corner," after a period in which enrollment had dropped from about 250 students in the freshman class to just 55 last year.

Almost immediately the Save Wilson College committee was formed and hired a lawyer to take legal action against the closing of the school, and begin mobilizing support.

"The Old Grads." Peggy Killmer of 181 Mount Lucas Road helped set up a "telephone tree" to spread the word to other graduates. Louise Ritenour of 209 Moore Street reports that she "got on that telephone day after day. Nearly all of the 7,000 alumnae of the college were called and alerted and asked for money. And they came through."

Mrs. Ritenour, a retired editor who worked at Educational Testing Service, added, "Never underestimate the power of an old grad."

The group's efforts led to a court order keeping the institution open. The judge in the case ordered that the college president and one of the trustees be removed from their positions.

Mrs. Ensminger, a member of the Class of 1962 and now a librarian at Hamilton High School West, said that much more work remains to be done with the new administration. "The same day the school closing was announced, letters were sent to all the students accepted for next year telling them they had better make different plans," she said. "As soon as we won the court case we began making contact with them to let them know we were still in business."

"The Right Place." The college is planning a weekend in July when prospective students can visit the campus.

The question of making Wilson a coeducational college is raised from time to time, said Mrs. Ensminger, but always rejected. "Obviously single sex colleges are not for everyone, but I still think there's a place for an all women's college," she said. "It obviously was the right place for me at the right time. That's why I've fought so hard to keep it open."

week from the basement of McCarter Theatre. Police said the seals, used as stage props, both measured four by three feet and were valued at $1,000 each.

A Patton Hall student told police last week that 69 record albums valued at $350 had been stolen from his locked room in Patton Hall while he had been away. The door was unlocked when he returned, he said.

A patient's $75 digital watch was stolen between 9 and 9:15 p.m. last week from a second floor room at Princeton Medical Center, and a Township resident reported the theft of her wallet from the front seat of her unlocked car while it was parked Friday on Nassau Street at Pine. She lost $30.

A black purse containing $20 was stolen during the night from a stairway of an unlocked Western Way home. Police, who received a report of the theft Saturday morning, said that the contents of the purse were recovered by neighborhood children.

There was another record theft from a room at Tower Club on Prospect Avenue. One victim told police he lost 50 records valued at $300 to $400; a second victim lost 35 LPs valued at $200.

Deposit Bag Stolen. A deposit bag was taken Thursday evening between 6 and 10 from the top of a desk in an unlocked kitchen office in the basement of Charter Club on Prospect. Police report the bag contained $5,293, of which $760 was cash.

Two students' mopeds were stolen Thursday from the grounds of Princeton High School. One, which was locked, was taken from the moped rack from the west side of the school near the circular drive.

In another theft at PHS the same day, two students reported their wallets stolen from a rest room near the school auditorium.

Police said they had left their purses in the women's room while they went on stage to perform in a skit. One victim lost $50, the second, $5.

A new Raleigh Grand Prix 10-speed bicycle valued at $150 was stolen last week from PHS between 8 and 11:30 in the morning. Police said it was unlocked.

A cassette tape player valued at $150 was stolen last week from the Jeep of a Dodds Lane resident while it was parked on Riverside Drive between midnight and 2 a.m. The Jeep had no top and could not be locked, Township police said.

OFFICE SUITE ENTERED

At 44 Nassau Street. The four-room office of Veterinary Learning Systems and Medical Marketing Company, 44 Nassau Street, was entered during the night last week, but police report no signs of forced entry.

All the rooms, desks, closets and filing cabinets were ransacked. Stolen were 10 gold pens valued at $50 each, a desk calculator ($179), a leather briefcase ($150) and $100 in cash.

A $400 stereo was stolen from an unlocked room in Brown Hall on the university campus--nothing else was taken--and an envelope containing $50 was removed from a bureau in an unlocked room in Foulke Hall.

From Speiman Hall, a thief took a $100 stereo from a room between 7 Thursday evening and 2 the next afternoon. The previous day, two wallets were stolen from an unlocked

In Place of an Apple

A large bag of mud containing dead fish and frogs was dumped on the windshield of a car at Princeton High School last week.

Police said that three persons in a light blue pickup truck drove by about 11:40 in the morning and tossed the bag on a green automobile, which they identified as belonging to a teacher.

room in South Edwards Hall. One victim lost $32, another $2.50. Also taken was a change purse containing a dollar.

An unlocked kitchen door was the means of entry last week into a Greenview Avenue home, where a thief took a wallet containing between $18 and $25. Also taken: a First National Bank check book and two sets of keys. Entry was between 6:30 Thursday night and 1:08 Friday morning.

Handbag Stolen. Township police report the theft of a handbag containing $45 from a home on Cedar Lane. It was taken from a chair in a master bedroom and later found—minus the money—on Western Way. Police believe entry was through an open screened window.

The car of a Bordentown resident was broken into last week while parked in an area of the Community Park School. A wallet containing $25 was taken from a pocketbook by a thief who first knocked out a left rear window.

TEENAGER IS CHARGED

With Two Attempted Entries. Ronald Ayers, 19, of Trenton has been charged by Borough police with two attempted break-ins, two counts of malicious damage to property, possession of burglary tools and possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana).

Bail was set at $1,500 each on the two break-in attempts and Ayres was taken to Mercer County Jail in lieu of bail. He allegedly tried to enter the Running Start store, 2 Chambers Street, and Aleka Shoe Store, 6 Chambers. He was accompanied, police said, by a 17-year old Trenton juvenile who was processed by juvenile authorities before being released to an aunt.

The two were observed by Ptl. David Alston and Dt. Ronald Holliday darting in and out of doorways on Chambers around 2:30 Thursday morning. Police investigated when they saw the suspects' car near 20 Nassau Street and its two occupants acting in a suspicious manner.

Cyclist Charged. John F. Sly, 22, of 464 Ewing Street, has been charged by Township police with attempting to elude a police officer.

Later released, Sly was observed by Ptl. James Vandermark last week driving on The Great Road with an expired registration sticker. Police said that Sly tried to outrun the patrol car, turned in North Road and drove off the roadway where he tried to hide behind some shrubbery.

MEETING CALLED

By Hunger Project. In January of this year a group of concerned citizens formed the Princeton Hunger Project Committee. Since then this group has enrolled approximately 6,000 residents of Princeton and the surrounding communities in the Hunger Project.

All 6,000 enrollees have committed themselves to being "responsible for making the end of starvation an idea whose time has come." Some have become very active in the Hunger Project and other hunger groups; others are looking for ways to participate in creating the conditions which will bring an end to the death by starvation of over 15 million people every year.

The Princeton Hunger Project Committee invites all interested persons to attend a presentation Thursday, June 28, at 7:30, on what we can do to participate in ending world hunger. This will take place at the Unitarian Church on Cherry Hill Road.

Larry Rich of Bread for the World and Dr. John Coonrod of the Princeton Hunger Project Committee will be among the speakers. Representatives from N.J. C.R.O.P., World Game, and the Hunger Project are also expected to take part. Civic groups, churches, and other organizations will be invited to the presentation.

Over the past few months the Princeton Hunger Project Committee has become familiar to many area residents. The committee frequently turns out in full force to enroll people, and to answer questions about the Hunger Project.

"Many people have talked to us concerning their feelings and ideas about ending world hunger," at Princeton University, Palmer Square, the Unitarian Church, the Princeton Shopping Center, and Quaker Bridge Mall, to name only a few spots," explained Dr. Coonrod, chairman of the Princeton Hunger Project Committee and a physicist at the Princeton Plasma Physics Lab. There are active Hunger Project groups at Princeton High School and Princeton University. A number of young Princeton residents, especially some at Riverside School, have written to President Carter expressing their ideas on ending starvation.

HEADMASTER RESIGNS

At Hun School. The board of trustees of the Hun School has announced the appointment of G. Gerald Donaldson Jr. as assistant headmaster and acting headmaster, following the resignation of Thomas M. Woodward Jr. The trustees also designated Richard D. Challenger, chairman of the Hun Board and professor of history at Princeton University, as president of the school.

Mr. Donaldson, most recently head of the upper school and a member of the faculty since 1958, will assume his new duties on July 1. Mr. Woodward, headmaster of the Hun School since 1976, is leaving to become headmaster of the Montgomery Country Day School in Wynnewood, Pa.

In a statement to parents and alumni, Dr. Challenger stated that the school "has made great progress under the leadership of Mr. Woodward and is a better and stronger institution as a result of the three years he has been with us." He said the board accepted the resignation with "genuine regret."

In a companion statement Mr. Woodward confirmed the school's "strong position," citing advances by the faculty in strengthening the curriculum, the largest enrollment in the school's history, and a record level of generosity by parents and alumni.

Mr. Woodward said his new position will provide an opportunity to return to the Philadelphia area, his home for many years, and to pursue his interest in elementary education.

Mr. Donaldson brings to his post experience in virtually every department of the school. He holds a bachelor of science degree in biology from Shippensburg State College and a master of arts degree from Trenton State College. A resident master at the Hun School for 11 years, Mr. Donaldson now lives in Skillman with his wife Marilyn and three sons, Mark, Todd, and Scott.

G. Gerald Donaldson, Jr.

DEVELOPMENT IS FOCUS

Of Township Meeting. Township Committee passed two ordinances last Wednesday evening and moved one other by title in a relatively light agenda. But much of its deliberation seemed to focus on development and developers.

One ordinance amended the code concerning land subdivision and performance guarantees and makes it possible for the Planning Board to make final approval to a developer conditional upon his obtaining a performance bond. Developers had complained of a "Catch-22" situation in which they weren't able to get the bond without approval and the Township code said no approval without a bond.

The second ordinance raised the salary of the Township Chief of Police from $24,982 to $25,663 and that of the recreation foreman from $12,970 to $14,000. Committee also introduced an ordinance to put Mountain Brook in the floodways ordinance but postponed public hearing until July 18 to give General William Whipple, chairman of the flood control committee, a chance to clear up some confusion in the delineation.

Most of the evening was taken up with a discussion of a possible slopes ordinance, which is on the agenda again for this Wednesday. Duffy Hutter again put up a contour map on which she had colored in red the areas of the Township with slopes ranging from 18 percent to 25 and even 40 percent. These are for the most part in the northern part of the Township, particularly in an area bounded by Herrontown Road, Poor Farm Road and Mt. Lucas Road.

Grades Are a Factor. One approach, presented by Mrs. Hutter at the May 30 meeting, is to enact a slope ordinance similar to one in Bridgewater Township. That township, which has steeper slopes than Princeton, prohibits development on any slopes of 30 percent or greater and also reduces the density of residential development on slopes of a lesser percentage by a certain factor, down to 10 percent, at which point regular zoning ordinances take effect.

Another approach, brought up by Mrs. Hutter last Wednesday on a suggestion from Township Attorney Gordon Griffin, is to change the zoning in the area concerned. Mr. Griffin had suggested that, since the land use committee of the Planning Board seemed about to recommend that the area be converted from an office-research zone to a residential zone, Committee might want to pass such an ordinance and face development applications as they come along. Mr. Griffin was concerned about the complicated computations involved in a regular slope ordinance.

Memory of Rachael K. Bull Pervades Ceremonies Marking Her Class's Graduation Monday Night

The Princeton High School graduation ceremonies were filled with the usual hijinks Monday night: seniors squirting water guns, lighting firecrackers, blowing horns, blowing bubbles, and applauding as their classmates marched one by one to receive their diplomas on the stage in Jadwin Gymnasium.

But beneath the merriment was the memory of Rachael K. Bull, the young woman who was to have marched to that stage also. When her name was called no one came forward, but her 276 classmates burst into applause, and then rose and continued to applaud, bringing the spectators to their feet, as well.

"The tragic death of Rachael Bull," Senior Class President David Amarel said in his remarks, "has made our past memories and future hopes more valuable than ever."

The grieving had come earlier. On Friday night, hours after Miss Bull had been murdered in her home on Mount Lucas Road, a group of friends and classmates had planned a pre-graduation party. Her friends instead gathered at the home of Grace Poole, a classmate since sixth grade, who also had participated with her in the school choir.

As the darkness of that long night began to break, the group went to Battlefield Park on Mercer Street. "When the sun rose we all stood in a line and sang Rachael's favorite song, Daniel Pinkham's 'Gloria in Excelsis Deo,'" Miss Poole said.

Memorial Services. That song, performed by the high school choir, was added to the graduation program. Miss Bull had traveled with the choir to the American Spoleto Festival in Charleston, S.C., last year — a three-week trip and the highlight of their high school years for many of the singers.

On Monday a moment of silence was observed at the high school. The seniors, excused for the day to rehearse their graduation, held a memorial service immediately following the rehearsal in Jadwin. Most of the class then joined friends and relatives of the slain woman at a memorial service in Trinity Church. The Rev. Daphne Hawkes asked the overflowing gathering of more than 600 mourners to consider the question, "What then is eternal?" Her answer, "Only love. Love is eternal."

The seniors, many of them in tears, dispersed until the 6 p.m. graduation ceremony.

By that time seniors may have decided to remember Rachael Bull as Grace Poole did: "She was full of life — carefree, but not to the point of not caring. She was a very good person to talk to, she was sensitive."

'Cherish Your Classmates.' Outgoing Principal George Petrillo, in his final address to the seniors, told them, "We are proud of your many achievements, particularly in the last few days." He advised them to "cherish your classmates, especially Rachael, because they are special."

The choir sang "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," the band struck up "Pomp and Circumstance," and 276 seniors filed out into the real world, more aware of that world than they had been just days before.

wires pulled back. The plug was then inserted into a 110 volt electrical outlet. Police said Rachael was apparently touched, shocked and burned by the bare electrical wires.

When arrested, Logan was carrying a paper bag which contained wire clippers and a replica of a German P38 pistol. "The gun was quite realistic looking," commented Chief Frederick Porter. "You had to examine it closely to know it was a fake."

Chief Porter said that the police investigation reveals there are no indications that Miss Bull and Logan knew each other. The Logan family lives on Linden Lane but David moved away in February, 1976.

According to Lt. Servis, Logan was driving on Ewing when he observed Miss Bull sitting in the backyard. He parked his white Pinto station wagon on Redding Circle and proceeded through a wooded area to the Bull home. His face covered by a T-shirt, he confronted her, pulled the fake pistol from a bag and forced her into the house.

At the time, Tad Bull, the victim's 16-year old brother, was playing records inside the house. "He saw his sister come in with Logan but didn't think anything of it," said Chief Porter. "He didn't see the gun."

Confession Reported. Thinking that Rachael and her friend had gone upstairs, possibly to practice some form of dramatic art, Chief Porter continued (Rachael was interested in the theater and had been accepted at New York University), Tad still did not think anything was wrong until he heard his sister scream. He immediately rushed to a neighbor's house to call the police.

First Assistant Mercer County Prosecutor Robert Farkus has reported that at a bail hearing, Logan admitted that his selection of Miss Bull had been "random." Logan is also alleged to have admitted torturing her with the live lamp wire.

Chief Porter said that his department is investigating the possibility of a connection between the murder of Miss Bull and the abduction at knife point May 24 of a 13-year old Mount Lucas girl who was dropped off safely after an eight-hour ride in which she was allegedly threatened several times. The descriptions of that suspect and Logan do not fit, Chief Porter commented.

After his arrest, Logan was arraigned before Township Judge Philip Carchman and then sent to the Mercer County Detention Center. He remains in Mercer Jail, pending the results of the autopsy by Dr. Frank Campo, and possible action by a grand jury.

In addition to her parents, Karen and Robert Bull, Rachael is survived by her brothers Robert B. (Tad), 16, and Mark K., 13; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hasbrouck Wallace of Siesta Key, Fla.; and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Herman Lindenberg of Columbus, Ohio.

Her father is employed by the New York University Press in New York. She was born in Englewood and had lived in Princeton for 15 years.

A memorial service by the Rev. Daphne Hawkes was conducted Monday afternoon at Trinity Episcopal Church, just hours before the Princeton High School graduation ceremonies where Miss Bull would have received her diploma. (See story, this page.)

The family requests those wishing to make contributions in her memory send them to the Princeton High School Choir Fund.

—Preston R. Eckmeder

Logan's Life Story Filled with Unending Problems

He had been described by a friend of the family as "a boy looking for help who could not find it."

As an "electronic genius," he once, while in the hospital, took a faulty television set apart with only his eating utensils, fixed it, and then had doctors and nurses lining up to have their sets fixed, too.

But along with the brilliance, there was a darker side to 26-year old David Allen Logan, the unemployed television repairman from South Amboy who is charged with the murder of 18-year old Rachael Bull. His life has been punctuated with rejection, mental illness and acts of violence.

He is the product of a broken home. His mother had divorced her husband in 1963 and moved to Princeton from California. His father was described as a stern, vindictive man who like to pick on David in particular.

A Drop-out at 15. Mrs. Logan was forced to raise David, the oldest, his brothers, Daniel and Michael, and a sister, by herself. There was little money. David was good in math and science in school, but shy. He dropped out at 15 and took a TV repair course when he was 17.

In 1970 he was charged with a hit-and-run in Bucks County, Pa. Three years later, he was charged with attempting to bash in the skulls of three Falls Township women with a hammer. One of the victims was partially paralyzed.

Logan never came to trial because he was declared mentally unfit by two Bucks County psychologists who interviewed him. One of the doctors wrote at the time of the 20-year old Logan that there was the possibility that he was endangering other lives and that he should be admitted for further study.

Logan was admitted to the Norristown State Hospital in Pennsylvania for psychiatric treatment. Less than two years later, in February, 1975, he was released. Doctors at the hospital reportedly told Mrs. Logan that her son was cured.

Suicidal Tendencies. He allegedly suffered from bouts of severe depression and was once committed to Princeton Medical Center as a potential suicide.

In February, 1976, he left Princeton and was married. His disposition changed for the better, according to his youngest brother Michael, 21, and the three became closer for the first time.

David had always had a problem with girls in school, Michael reported. He did not tell his wife of his past mental problems.

Recently, a friend said that he "felt something happening" and had gone to a private psychiatrist for help. The doctor allegedly told David he was more than he could handle when he learned of his background and recommended he visit a clinic.

Not wanting to go to one, David went to another doctor but did not tell him about his past because he was afraid the doctor would intimidate him.

Now he is being held without bail for the mindless killing of Rachael Bull, and police are seeking to link him to several other unsolved cases of a

Recycling Van Due

The Reynolds Aluminum recycling van will be at the Princeton Shopping Center Tuesday from 12:30 to 1:30.

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company pays 20 cents per pound for all aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum, such as pie plates, foil, frozen food and dinner trays and dip, pudding and meat containers. similar nature. In both cases, you have grieving mothers, commented a friend of the Logans, implying that David is as much a victim as the young woman whose life he is accused of taking.

Township Committee

Objections were raised that this latter approach might be considered "spot zoning" and that the Township might be liable to litigation by developers whose plans were already under review under the present zoning law. "What the Township really needs is something more definitive about slopes built into the subdivision code," Mayor Josie Hall suggested.

In the work session, Committee accepted "with great" regret the resignation of Jerome Rose as the Township representative on the Zoning Board and appointed Grant D. Green of Rollingmead in his place. Committee also decided reluctantly to postpone computerization of tax revaluation data since the PRC Jacobs firm currently reassessing properties in both Borough and Township seems unwilling to break its contract to put the figures in order for the computer.

FIELD DAY PLANNED

By Ham Operators. The Fusion Amateur Radio Club, comprised mainly of "ham" radio operators who work at the Plasma Physics and Gas Dynamics laboratories on the Forrestal campus of Princeton University, will again participate in the annual amateur radio field day exercises this Saturday and Sunday.

Amateur Radio Field Day, sponsored each year by the American Radio Relay League, gives "hams" an opportunity to test their radio equipment under simulated emergency conditions. It is a national event.

Using the call letters of the Princeton University amateur radio station, W2PU, the Fusion ARC group will operate for the entire 24-hour field day period with battery-powered gear from a site on a plot of land adjacent to the airfield at the Forrestal campus on the east side of Route 1. The public is invited to visit the site Saturday from 2 to 6 and Sunday from 9 to 2. Directions to the site will be given at the guard booth at the entrance.

In addition to the conventional dipole, vertical and beam antennas, the group will attempt--conditions permitting--to operate with an antenna supported by a helium-filled weather balloon and another supported by a kite.

Fusion ARC is but one of several groups in the area that is participating in the field day. For information contact Bill Cary WB2HON at 452-1972.

BUSINESS In Princeton

GIVEN FIRM AWARD

By Architect Institute. The firm of Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham, located in Princeton and Philadelphia, has received the 1979 Architectural Firm Award, the highest honor the American Institute of Architects can bestow upon an architectural firm.

The award was created in 1962 and is given to "a firm which has consistently produced distinguished architecture for a period of 10 years." Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham received the award during the American Institute of Architects national convention in Kansas City.

The 1979 convention theme was "A Celebration of Architecture," and the work of Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham was cited in an unprecedented way. For the first time, the AIA presented its Firm Award winner in a professional development seminar devoted entirely to that firm's work. In the seminar, titled "Architectural Principles in the Age of Uncertainty," the principals of the firm explored the sources and possibilities of architecture, as revealed through its award-winning work.

The firm was founded in 1953 when Robert Geddes and Melvin Brecher, recent Harvard graduates, opened a one-room office in Philadelphia. They were joined by George Qualls in 1956 and Warren Cunningham in 1960. The Princeton office opened in 1965, when Robert Geddes became dean of the Princeton School of Architecture, a post he still holds.

The work of the 70-person firm was cited by the AIA for its "high design quality, an understanding of the natural and built environment, and social concern." The firm was also cited for its commitment to architectural education and professional development.

Farewell Thoughts.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Thank you and good-bye. Stone's Linen Shop is closing in Princeton after 26 years of business. I want to take this opportunity to thank all of the loyal customers who have supported Stone's over the years.

I have only had the shop for five and a half years, but in that time I have endeavored to give the best of service and the highest quality merchandise at reasonable prices. I honestly feel that I have fulfilled that goal. As an added benefit, I have made a great number of good friends. This has made it all worthwhile.

As a closing statement, I would like to make an observation. The type of merchandise that I sell, and also other merchants, lasts for years. It is quality and made to last.

Some of the items are fashion-oriented, but for the most part are staples. Because of this, I must have a constant supply of new customers, in addition to the old ones. I have heard, as many of you have, the constant cry for adequate parking.

I did not like the five-story monster that was planned, especially since the net gain would have been somewhere between six and 50 spaces. I do think that two smaller garages, possibly located in the area of Chambers-Hulfish and in the Davidson Market area would provide relief from the Central Business District congestion.

I too would like to keep Princeton Princeton but it should come up to the 20th century. If the shopping and CBD are to remain viable, something must be done about parking.

If the amount of money that has been spent on all the studies had been spent on a garage, we would have had one. There are other merchants in town who are marginal and would welcome some relief and help.

I did not want this to sound like a lecture, but those are my feelings and I thought they should be expressed.

Programs Require Facility.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The purpose of this letter is to acquaint our fellow elder citizens, families, friends and other interested persons of the goals of the Senior Citizen's Club in reaching out to one another in the desire to provide a happy and active retirement.

The programs planned include educational talks by qualified speakers relating to senior citizen problems, fascinating classes which tend to bring out hidden skills of our members, such as ceramics, arts and crafts, sewing, painting and many others, even swimming classes. Entertainment programs will be many. Travel such as one day luncheon and theatre trips and occasional over-night vacations are on the agenda. Picnics and special holiday celebrations are also scheduled.

It is the sincere desire of the Princeton Senior Citizens Club to acquire an accessible and comfortable accommodation for this rapidly growing organization. The facility would provide a meeting place for members to become acquainted and feel welcome to drop in for relaxation and perhaps for a cup of coffee and conversation with friends. Loneliness can so easily come to those living alone, and a community drop-in center for seniors would bring cheer to untold numbers.

It is our sincere hope that such a facility will be provided for this deserving and growing number of local citizens.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

JUNE IS TIME TO WATCH FOR SCALE INSECTS
with Sam deTuro
Woodwinds Associates

If you didn't use a Dormant Oil spray this winter, your next best chance to control scale insects is during June and July. Scale insects are the tortoisés of the insect kingdom. They don't jump, walk or run like most of the other 700,000 or more insect species they simply crawl, and then only when they're young. Once scale insects mature they settle down for the rest of their lives, sucking plant juices and causing damage to trees, shrubs and other vegetative life. During the crawling stage - before they have encased themselves in armor-like covering - they are most vulnerable. Not all scale insects crawl at the same time, but a very large number of them do during June and July. Spray with a good contact insecticide, two applications 10 to 14 days apart are usually necessary. These are some of the scales now controllable: azalea bark scale on azalea and rhododendron, euonymus scale on euonymus, ivy and pachysandra, florina externa scale on hemlock and spruce, juniper scale on arborvitae and juniper, oystershell scale on boxwood, rhododendron scale on rhododendron, pine needle scale on spruce and pine, putnam scale on holly, white peach scale on privet, and cottony taxus scale on yew. Scale insects come in different colors, various shapes. A juniper scale looks like a tiny fried egg - white with a yellow center. Rhododendron scale is tan in color, almost circular in shape and infests both leaf and stem. The scale on holly is hard round, dark gray with an orange center. Yew scale is soft, looks like a gumdrop on a twig. Pine needle scale is white and elongated. As with other tree and plant pests, WOODWINDS reminds the homeowner that any weening caused by scale can be combatted with deep root feeding to encourage new vigorous growth.

NEW DIRECTOR NAMED

For All Saints' Choir. Lois Laverty, a member of the voice faculty at Westminster Choir College, has been named music director at All Saints' Church. She succeeds David Agler, who has resigned to become assistant music director of the San Francisco Opera.

Miss Laverty will direct the adult choir and have overall responsibility for planning the music program. Harriet McCleary will continue her work with the children's choir, but Nancianne Parella, who served as Mr. Agler's assistant, has also resigned to devote more time to her other musical commitments, and the church is still in need of an organist and high school choir director.

Miss Laverty has been the chief alto soloist with the All Saints' Choir for the past six years. Born and raised in Harrisburg, Pa., she has been involved in churches and music ever since childhood, singing or leading choirs in as widely differing places as Southern Baptist gospel-singing churches and the Vienna Community Church in Austria where she conducted the choir for a year.

She studied voice and performed in concerts and operas in Austria and Germany for six years, returning to join the voice faculty at Westminster Choir College where she also teaches diction in five languages to the freshman class. Miss Laverty lives in Kendall Park.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Prince of Peace Lutheran Church on Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction, has begun its summer schedule. Worship service begins at 9:30 and is followed by a coffee fellowship at 10:30. There will be no Sunday school during the summer months, and parents are urged to bring their children to church.

The Rev. Frederick Schott is pastor, and may be reached by calling 799-1753, 799-1783.

Margaret Chase, Presbyterian fraternal worker in Cameroun, West Africa, will visit Nassau Presbyterian Church this Sunday and will share some of her insights into present day Africa with all who are interested, in the assembly room after the 10 a.m. service.

Miss Chase's work in Africa has dealt primarily with education in the secondary schools and with urban evangelism and the social problems inherent in the growing cities. Paramount among these problems are the issues of food, housing and unemployment.

The Rev. Geddes W. Hanson, associate professor of practical theology at Princeton Theological Seminary, will be the preacher Sunday at 10 in the service in the chancel of the Princeton University Chapel. His sermon topic will be "The Promise and the Power."

Dr. Hanson is an alumnus of Howard University, Harvard Divinity School and Princeton Seminary. After some eight years in parish ministry in New York, Philadelphia and Indiana, Dr. Hanson came to Princeton in 1966. He is currently also serving as moderator of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Hanson has served on the Commission on Faith and Order of the National Council of Churches and is a member of the editorial board of psychology today.

in a bike to the station location just minutes from downtown Princeton. Here is a three bedroom, 1 1/2 bath dutch colonial home on almost seven fertile flowering acres. Neat as a pin, bright and cheery — pleasant country kitchen, living room with fireplace, good-sized dining room and convenient family room.

The land runs back to Bear Brook and boasts established (easy care!) gardens both flower and vegetable, many varieties of fruit trees and berries — if you like you could live off the land! Outbuildings include a barn suitable for a horse, heated green house, and two-car garage with small apartment above — for guest overflow or rental.

That's Bear Brook Farm — a real find at

News Of The THEATRES
MUSICAL DUE
At Open Air Theatre. The Broadway musical "Shenandoah" will be given its first area production at the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing Park beginning this Thursday at 8:30. Performances will continue on Friday and Saturday and the following weekend, June 28, 29 and 30.

"Shenandoah" is about the Anderson family living in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley during the Civil War. Michael Potashnick is starred as Charlie Anderson, the widower father of a farming family of six spirited boys and one tomboy. He desperately tries to protect his family from the war, but when his hand is forced, he leads them into his own private battle.
Alan Chewing plays Jacob, the serious older son; David McGinley plays the handsome and argumentative second oldest son and Sue Kunes his wife Anne. The remaining sons are played by Charlie Weiss, Rodger Fell, Herman Sebek and David Kloos as "the boy" whose capture by Union troops forces the family into the fray.
Becky Spencer makes her debut at the Open Air Theatre as the lone daughter in the Anderson family, while Craig Evans, returning for his sixth season, plays her suitor, a shy young Confederate lieutenant. Daryl Herder, an 11-year-old from Bristol, Pa., plays the role of Gabriel, the young slave from the neighboring farm who is "the boy's" fishing partner. Richard Young plays the role of Reverend Byrd, the town preacher who himself has given three sons to the war, and Scott Jacobs is seen as the hapless Sergeant Johnson, sent by the Confederates to draft the Anderson boys.

Other roles are played by Stephen Peacock, Stan Czarnecki, Keith Wunder, Eric Stover, Gerry Yost, Jim Schwing, John Quilty, Brian Jackson, Charlie Ashton, David Rowlands, Jim Rogers, Ken Walker, Tom Lyons and Bill Reed.

Dona Tancredi has choreographed all the male dancing numbers. The settings have been designed and executed by Jeff Seip, and the entire production has been directed by Theodore Kloos. This marks the sixth production of the Neshaminy Players to be brought to the Open Air Theatre.

INTIME TO OPEN

Lovers," which critics have acclaimed as Simon's funniest but most human comedy, pokes fun at, and compels sympathy for, the trials and frustrations of a timid owner of a seafood restaurant who fears that after 47 years of deserving his good conduct medals, he may be letting some good things of life pass him by.

John Whitesell will star as Barney Cashman, a faithful husband for 23 years, who decides that in the moral climate of his time he is obliged to undertake a foray into adultery. The least impressive sort of fellow to be the last of the red hot lovers, he makes three successive attempts at a fling, and ruefully discovers he hasn't the heart or the talent for such adventures.

His first mistake is to invite his three putative partners in sin to meet him in the ultra-neat, ultra-respectable apartment of his mother on various Friday afternoons. The atmosphere is ludicrously suitable, and his air of a little boy sneaking into naughtiness while Mama's away is increased by a tight schedule: Mama is due home shortly.

But even if the setting were Rudolph Valentino's old tent, success would be elusive for this unlikely Lothario. The merriment rises as the paragon of virtue, trying so hard not to slip, keeps adding other mistakes of strategy and tactics with the three ladies who have accepted his invitations to Mama's apartment.

Nancy Bleemer will be seen as the first visitor, Elaine, a regular patron of his restaurant whom he began romancing by seeing that she got an extra shrimp in her shrimp cocktail, and then getting really bold by saying "Try the scallops," and working up to, "I've never seen such beautiful fingers in my finger-bowls." Terri Ducette and Shelly Ferber will appear as the two other ladies, Bobbi and Jeannette, to whom Barney gives his awkward and amusingly unsuccessful attentions.

graduate studies at the acting school at the University of Oklahoma, will direct Summer Intime's first show. The performances will open on June 28 with a champagne party afterwards for all who attend, and continue on June 29, 30, July 1, 5, 6, 7 and 8, with all curtains at 8. A matinee will be held on Sunday, July 8 at 2:30 with special prices. Call 452-8181 for reservations.

AUDITIONS THIS WEEK

For "Picnic." Princeton Street Theatre will hold auditions for William Inge's "Picnic" this Wednesday and Thursday at 7. Auditions will be held at Princeton Community Village, Bunn Drive.

"Picnic" takes place in a small town in Kansas on the day of the Labor Day picnic. When Hal Carter comes into town, the lives of several residents are changed forever. This play is about love, self-realization and the pain and joy of growing up.

A large cast is needed and many different kinds of characters are involved, from handsome young men to beautiful young girls, budding teenagers, spinster, bachelors, the brave, the strong and the desperate.

Opportunities also exist to sign up for a technical crew in costumes, set, props, house or trailer. Workshop registration is also still open for classes in dance, stage makeup, acting, improvisational theatre and vocal production. No experience is necessary, and everyone is welcome from grade 7 through adult.

All activities are held at PCV, which is a short bus ride from the shopping center. For further information call 924-7452.

CINEMA '79 TO BEGIN

First Show This Wednesday. McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema '79 season at air-conditioned Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus (Washington Road at William Street) will open on Wednesday, June 20, with a double feature comprising Luis Bunuel's "Tristana" and Ingmar Bergman's "The Magic Flute."

The Bunuel-Bergman combination, the first of ten weekly double-features scheduled for this summer, will play nightly through Sunday, June 24. Kresge Auditorium is located in Frick Chemical Building with ample free parking in near-by University lots.

"Tristana" finds Spain's master director full of his customary contempt for the hypocrisies by which we all live. Catherine Deneuve plays a young, innocent girl who becomes the mistress of her aging, corrupt guardian (Fernando Rey).

She then proceeds to destroy him, first with an artist, then with a deaf-mute boy, and finally, by herself. Made in 1970, when Bunuel was 70, and filmed in Toledo, "Tristana" is perhaps the most "Spanish" of all his films, full of irony and farcical sobriety.

"The Magic Flute" is Bergman's screen adaptation of the Mozart opera, a "tour de force" for the great Swedish director replete with sing-along effects and all the wonders of the Temple of Wisdom explored. Bergman has cut Mozart's original, condensed its confusing libretto, and turned everything into an exuberant pageant.

On Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday evenings, "Tristana" will be shown at 7:30, followed by "The Magic Flute" at 9:15. On Friday and Saturday, the times will be 8 and 9:45.

Single admission to the double-feature is $3, a ten-ticket coupon book to the entire Summer Cinema '79 season is available at the McCarter Theatre box office for $20. The box office is open from 12 to 5, Monday through Saturday, 921-8700. Coupon books and single tickets may be purchased at the door one hour before screening.

Summer Cinema '79's second program, from Wednesday, June 27, through Sunday, July 1, will pair Woody Allen's "Sleeper" with Stanley Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey."

'OKLAHOMA' PLAYING

At Bucks County. Current production at the Bucks County Playhouse through June 24 is Rogers and Hammerstein's musical favorite, "Oklahoma." It contains such classics as "Oh, What A Beautiful Mornin'," "People Will Say We're in Love," "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top," "I Can't Say No," "Out of My Dreams," "All'er Nothing," as well as the title song.

Featured in the cast are Don Brenner and Kim Bantle as Curley and Laurie, Lee Morey as Aunt Eller, Michael Myers as Jud Fry, David Whitman as Ali Hakim and Karyl Leigh as Ado Annie, the role that launched Celeste Holm's career when the show first opened on Broadway. Bob Taylor and Wayne Snover also have principal roles. The show was directed and choreographed by the Playhouse resident choreographer Kristine Eubank.

For information regarding season subscriptions and theatre party group discounts telephone (215) 862-2041. The Playhouse is now on its summer schedule with performances Tuesday through Friday evenings at 8:30, Saturdays at 5 and 9, and Sundays at 2 and 7:30.

A LOOK AT THE FUTURE

In Two Films. Two quite different cinematic views of the future — one by Woody Allen, the other by Stanley Kubrick — will make up the second week of McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema '79 series at Kresge Auditorium beginning Wednesday, June 27, through Sunday, July 1.

The featured work on the double bill will be Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey," a landmark film in the evolution of modern cinema, and widely regarded as the precursor of the "space travel and science fiction" movie genre which has become so prevalent in the 1970's. Kubrick's epic traces the technological history of man while exploring the dynamics of space travel, outlining man's inability to cope with the unknown. The cast includes Gary Lockwood, Keir Dullea, and, of course, Hal, the most famous computer in movie history.

The companion feature will be "Sleeper," writer-actor-director Woody Allen's own "2001," made in 1973. Woody himself plays Miles Monroe, the ex-proprietor of a health food store, who is mistakenly frozen in a time capsule designed for thawing out in the year 2173. Woody wakes up understandably confused and finds himself a fugitive alien in a futuristic society where household robots do all the chores. In his reverse time trip, Woody is aided by (of course) Diane Keaton, as well as a 200-year-old Volkswagen, and he eventually triumphs

TWO PLAYS FOR KIDS

In Washington Crossing Park, Creative Theatre's Performance Troupe will present two audience participatory plays for children at Washington Crossing State Park on Saturday in the Open Air Theatre.

"The Journey," at 1 (recommended for 3rd-6th graders), takes a band of circus performers through many adventures as they travel to new places, setting up their tents, doing their tricks, making a film of themselves, and surviving a run for the border through dangerous terrain. The audience is involved in these activities.

In "The Rainbow Box," at 3 (for ages 5-8), the children in the audience help the Rainbow Queen restore the colors to her fading rainbow, after an incompetent assistant nearly destroys it.

All tickets are $1.50, and will be sold at the Park's ticket booth after noon on the day of performance. The Park requires an entrance fee of $1 per car, payable at the toll booth at the entrance.

Rain date for both plays will be Sunday. For further information, call Creative Theatre at 924-3489.

ENGLISH CHOIR HERE
For Concert at Trinity. The Choir of St. John's College Cambridge, will appear in concert at Trinity Episcopal Church this Thursday at 8:30. The Choir, founded in 1511, along with St. John's College, is under the direction of Dr. George Guest. Dr. Guest, a Welshman, was originally an organ scholar at St. John's, a coveted position for which an open competition is held every three years. In 1951, Dr. Guest became organist and choir director at St. John's. In addition, he is lecturer in music at the University of Cambridge, organist to the university, a special commissioner of the Royal School of Church Music, president of the Royal College of Organists and director of studies in music at St. John's, Downing and Queen's Colleges at Cambridge.

St. John's Choir has toured all over the world, appearing at a High Mass in the Chartres Cathedral, an Anglican Evensong in Maastricht, Holland, a recital at St. Thomas' Church in New York. The choir has been invited by Yehudi Menuhin to perform at the Gstaad Festival in Switzerland and sang five concerts at the 1975 Holland Festival. In 1978 the Choir toured Australia. In addition to the extensive touring, the Choir has made over 50 recordings.

The concert, co-sponsored by Trinity Church and Westminster Choir College, will include music from the 16th-20th centuries. St. John's College Choir has built a reputation over the years for possessing a comprehensive repertoire covering six centuries of music, specializing in no particular style or period.

Among other music, the Choir will sing four motets from Poulenc, and Anthems from Gabriel Faure, T. Hopkin Evans and Malcolm Boyle. Featured on the program will be two organ solos by the current organ scholar, David Hill, Bach's Ricercare a 6 Voci and Carillon-Sortie by Henri Mulet. The program will end with the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis from William Mathias.

Information about the concert and cards of admission may be obtained by writing Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, or calling 924-2277.

GLEE CLUB ON TOUR

Members of the Lawrenceville School Glee Club on tour from Princeton are Phillip J. Corwin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Greenberg of Ridgeview Circle, and Robert A. Oakley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Oakley of Dodds Lane. From Lawrenceville, Kenneth W. Keuffel, Jr. son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Keuffel of Main Street; Roland V. Pearson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland V. Pearson of Empress Lane, and Dominic A.A. Randolph, son of Mrs. Marie Randolph of Henderson Avenue.

Broadway and throughout the United States and Canada. Her singing with the full New Jersey Symphony, conducted by music director Thomas Michalak, will be enhanced by the acoustics of the orchestra's mobile sound stage, a gift of the Robert Wood Johnson, Jr. Charitable Trust.

In true "Pops" tradition, the orchestra's program will range from Bizet's Carmen Suite to Verdi's Triumphant March from Aida; and from selections from "Hair" to Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture. ## Caplans' Huge Toy Collection Leads to Plans For Creation of Museum of Play and Fantasy

Frank Caplan is serving as Honorary Chairman of the Princeton Art Association's "Evening With Art and Artists," the rather unusual art lottery to be held the evening of June 23 at the Princeton Inn. His association with this event reflects the PAA's encouragement of all forms of artistic endeavor, as well as its emphasis on the importance of continuing art education. This article was written for Town Topics by Linda Burton, a freelance writer who has recently moved to Princeton.

If Santa Claus were looking for a summer job, he'd probably apply to Theresa and Frank Caplan first. Residents of Princeton since 1958, the Caplans look like much the same compact and efficient elves which Santa himself tends to take on over the winter months.

Certainly, their credentials would be impeccable: founders of Creative Playthings and the Princeton Center for Infancy and Early Childhood, the Caplans have pioneered the transformation of the playground to university. Their publications — "The First Twelve Months of Life," "The Second Twelve Months of Life," "The Power of Play" — are being snapped up by new parents and educators around the world.

Their latest, in a successful series of child-oriented enterprises, is the creation of a unique Museum of Fantasy and Play for which they are seeking both a home and financial support. No mere "dead repository of things," the Museum of Fantasy and Play should show the same bold leadership characteristic of its creators. To help support this undertaking, all manner of toy shops and children's theatre are envisioned within museum halls which promise to be considerably less hallowed and a lot more fun than most. "We expect to have meeting rooms, as well," says Mrs. Caplan, "where international toymakers, for instance, might meet."

giving children "a sense of daring — a playful attitude toward life" — is reflected in this exhibit. Although many toys are necessarily protected by plastic coverings, many others are not. There are musical instruments for children to play and touch, and a three-foot-tall jumping jack to activate.

One wonders why two seemingly sober adults would actually devote a lifetime to the study and cultivation of play. Is there really a line of work called "play?" Frank Caplan's fascination with it began with his training as an educator in the 1930's, first at the progressive City and Country School in West Village, New York, and later, with Mrs. Caplan, at a private school in Rockaway. "I wanted to learn group work," Frank Caplan says, "the dynamics of group education — and found myself particularly drawn to the study of children at play." From this experience, the State Museum Exhibit. The collection, Theresa and Frank Caplan's own, consists of more than 36,000 toys (always functional) and objects of fantasy (purely decorative), all of which have been systematically — and joyously — gathered by the Caplans in 14 years of international travel.

In addition to these 36,000, there are now 1,750 on exhibit at the New Jersey State Museum through August 8 and due at the United Nations for special exhibit from August 15 to September 28. As a particularly fitting homage to the United Nations International Year of the Child, UNESCO readily lent the exhibit its formal support.

The Caplans' firm belief in

Art in Princeton

Caplans began to formulate the basic premise behind what was to become their life's work: that all children are born with a sense of imagination, an innate curiosity, and an enormous intellectual vitality — and they set out to do what they could to help foster the development of that theory.

World "Reproportioned." What they did do — Creative Playthings — is legend. Opened on a small New York side street in 1943, Creative Playthings literally re-proportioned the world to fit children. Its showroom boasted child-sized chairs to fit their bodies and giant-sized turtles to fit their minds. "We didn't just sell something," Mrs. Caplan says. "We educated."

While other toy manufacturers were turning out adult-conceived, red-painted trucks, for instance, accurate down to the last detail, the Caplans were touting the merits of a wooden block with wheels and having the effrontery to call it "better."

"A child," they explain, "could make that truck anything he wanted. His mind could make it any color he wanted." One day a truck, the next day an ambulance, the day after a dragon, it didn't particularly matter to the Caplans. What did matter, they claimed, was that the child be the creator, the engineer, the person in charge of his own environment.

Like the children they studied, the Caplans have managed to see the world as a series of unusual possibilities. Why, they pondered, must a sliding board be a straight metal incline? Wouldn't a concrete spiral be more inventive, more interesting, more (pardon the expression) "fun"? How about huge play sculptures for kids to run in and out, underneath and on top of?

Why hasn't someone made a globe that shows what's going on beneath the crust of the world? Isn't that just as interesting as what's going on on top?

In adding to their immense collection, the Caplans have continued to ask themselves similar questions. Is this object whimsical, is it skillful, playful? Does it show imagination? Apparently — 36,000 times anyway — it does. There are countless examples of clever, intricate folk-art, as well as mass-produced toys and objects of fantasy.

With gasoline getting harder and harder to come by, the Caplans' incredible collection may prove the next best method of transportation. For adults, it's a way to get back home — to England, to Africa, to Main Street. For children, it's an inspiration. The Caplans claim that a good toy "turns a magical light on," and it's easy to agree. Marching soldiers? You can almost hear the music. A dancing doll? You could pirouette down the block. It's difficult to choose the best.

"Which," Mrs. Caplan was asked "is your favorite toy?" She looked perplexed and turned to stare at me indignantly. "Who," she retorted, "is your favorite child?"

EXHIBITION CONTINUES

In New Hope. The Phillips Mill 50th Anniversary Exhibition will continue through June 24 at the old mill just north of New Hope, Pa. The retrospective show consists of work by the artists who showed there during the period 1929-1939. Many of them were the early settlers of the art colony, who won many awards in major exhibitions both here and abroad.

The show has received high praise from the critics and provides an opportunity for all art lovers in the Delaware Valley. Some of the paintings and drawings are for sale. The gallery is open seven days a week from 1-5 and until 8 on Fridays. Admission is $1, 50 cents for senior citizens and students. A catalog documenting the show is available for $3.

CLASSIC SIMPLICITY
In Workbench Furniture. The Workbench is a spacious showroom with a welcoming atmosphere offering a tremendous selection of classic furnishings for the home. Upholstered and natural wood pieces — sofas, loveseats, chairs, tables, beds, desks, bookcases — are displayed with bright wall hangings and flourishing greenery. Friendly service is extended by a knowledgeable staff.

Workbench furniture is styled with classic simplicity that spans the years. Quality fabrics and meticulous craftsmanship ensure its dependability and long life. The pieces have great versatility, blending easily with other styles of furniture and adapting to other uses and room settings as family needs change.

Living Room. One of the best buys in living room furniture is an unassembled sofa with a hardwood frame, tempered steel springs and thick, quality foam padding. The sofa's five basic pieces are made with a wedgelock fastening system that can be put together without tools and is guaranteed for 10 years. Three seat cushions and three back cushions complete the sofa, shown in a beige nylon tweed and offered in custom fabrics or with butcher block arms. Sofa $459; love seat $359.

Another good value is a loveseat, sofa and chair sturdily constructed with solid wood sides and backs, padded with foam and covered with fawn nylon velvet or a choice of custom fabrics. Styled with loose pillow backs, seats and arm bolsters, the sofa is $499; loveseat $410, chair $250. A low-priced traditional sofa and loveseat make a handsome appearance in a neutral nylon herringbone tweed. The sofa is $399 and loveseat $329 — both are also available as sleepers.

SUMMER HOSPITALITY is easy with this attractive set of outdoor furniture from The Workbench, shown by Fank Blatto, manager. Made of lightweight steel coated with white polyvinyl chloride, it is durable, light-weight, weather-proof and the chairs are stackable. The Workbench also has a large selection of upholstered and natural wood furnishings for interiors.

Top of the line sofas, loveseats and chairs are made to your order in the dimensions and fabrics you desire. The basic style has an upholstered solid oak frame and loose pillow backs and seats, but can also be ordered with a plinth base or in a Parson's style. Sofas range in price from $710 to $950, loveseats $575 to $750, chairs $405 to $575, and all are available as sleepers.

Sectionals of forest green or khaki channel quilted cotton over foam unfold to make comfortable beds for guests. A chair-sized sectional makes a single bed, $145; a loveseat with arms that can be zipped off becomes a full sized bed, $340; left or right armed corner sections, $170 each, also become single beds.

Dining Room. Dining tables and chairs are displayed in a wide variety of styles such as a solid rock maple top, 36" x 60", on a beech trestle base, $250, shown with graceful, hoop-backed Windsor chairs of solid oak; arm chair $125, side chair, $95.

A teak table with beautiful graining, 37" x 56", opens to 37" x 103" with pull-out, pop-up leaves at each end, $335, and teak side chairs upholstered in natural linen or black vinyl, $90. Tables can be made from butcher block tops in round, square or rectangular shapes mounted on pedestals of wood, chrome, or black cast iron, or trestle bases of wood or chrome.

Bedroom. A walnut or oak platform bed on legs can also be ordered with a plinth base that has roll-out drawers in single to king sizes with matching dressers and wardrobes. Queen size bed on display, $460.

Children's bedroom furniture includes a trundle bed in teak, oak or white lacquer with a second bed that pulls out like a drawer, $300, bunk beds of solid oak, $475 set, and bunk beds constructed of white lacquered pipes with pocketed canvas panels at each end, $240 each.

Storage and Display Units. Stackable units of pressed wood with white lacquer finish can be assembled in many combinations for storage and display. A wall unit 78" high, in elmwood or teak veneer, contains cabinets with solid wood or glass doors, a drop-front unit for bar use, drawers, bookcases and record dividers, and can also be custom made to your specifications. Bookcases in oak, teak or walnut veneer are offered in high or low styles.

Desks and Chairs. Desks in many sizes with a choice of accommodations can be put together from components which include file cabinets of standard or legal size, center drawers and metal legs, in brown, white or yellow, and natural butcher block tops. Desk chairs sized for both children and adults swivel on pedestal bases and have adjustable heights and backs. The adult sized chair in white, teak or oak is $100; a child's desk chair in red, white, blue or yellow is $85.

Outdoor Furniture. Attractive chairs, tables and loveseats made from steel coated with white polyvinyl chloride are strong, lightweight and weather-proof. The stackable mesh chairs are available with high or low backs and cushioned with green cotton duck. High-backed chairs, $45 each or 4 for $159; low-backed chairs $30 each or 4 for $99. I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You
by John Bernard

Here's a believe-it-or-not from baseball....The legendary athlete, Jim Thorpe, once hit three home runs into three different states in the same game!...It happened in a semi-pro game played in a park on the Texas-Oklahoma-Arkansas border....Thorpe's first homer went over the left field fence with the ball landing in Oklahoma....He then hit one over the right field fence into Arkansas, and his third homer was an inside-the-park home run in center field, which was in Texas.

Here's an interesting question....Although Bobby Jones was one of the greatest golfers of all-time, his name appears nowhere on the list of top money winners in golf history....Why not? ...Many fans today aren't aware that Jones—even though he played in pro golf tournaments—remained an amateur throughout his golfing career and never took one penny in prize money.

I bet you didn't know...that mortgage insurance is very inexpensive life insurance.

Do you know who hit the most home runs with the bases loaded in the history of big league baseball?...Answer is NOT Hank Aaron or Babe Ruth, as you'd expect....It's Lou Gehrig who hit 23 to set the all-time record.

LAPIDUS SELECTED
For Junior Davis Cup Team. Princeton University's sophomore tennis All-American, Jay Lapidus, has been named to the 12-player United States Tennis Association's men's 21 and under Junior Davis Cup team. The dozen players, nine of whom are collegiate All-Americans, will compete in national and international play.

Lapidus, a native of Princeton, is the first player ever selected to a Junior Davis Cup team from an Eastern college. The powerful southpaw led Princeton to its best season in history this spring, a 13-0 regular season record and a final national ranking of eight.

A two-time Eastern singles champion, Lapidus also was the champion of the Milwaukee Indoor Classic last January and lost in the finals of the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA) singles championship in Austin, TX last month.

He is now in Europe, where he will first play in a tournament in France and then battle in qualifying rounds for a spot in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships in England.

Princeton University coach Dave Benjamin, who has led the Tiger tennis team to a 66-7 dual match and 53-1 Eastern League record in his six seasons at the helm, has been elected President of the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA). Also chairman of the NCAA

Final Rounds of Governor's Cup Play Planned This Weekend at Springdale

Four teams remain in the Governors' Cup Tournament at Springdale Golf Club, where two 18-hole rounds of match play elimination were completed Sunday following a rain interruption. Semi-finals are scheduled for Saturday, with the championship to be played Sunday morning.

Kemp Roll and John Murray will be paired in the top bracket of the semi-finals against Ken Dawes and Jack Sweeney. In the other bracket, Dick Thompson and Mike Meyers will face Steve Peters and Dick Embley.

Roll and Murray won last weekend from Charlie Foster and Charlie Hurford, 2 up, and from Jack Petrone and Bob Shillaber, 4 and 3. The latter pair had been the medalists with a net 62.

Dawes and Sweeney went to the 21st green on Sunday, where they edged Jim Litvack and Harold Crane, 1 up. They had held a similar lead on the 18th, but neither managed to cross the lake there and the Litvack - Crane pair squared the match and, following a two-hour rain delay, took it into three extra holes. On Saturday, the latter had won, 4

Tennis Committee, Benjamin has been a member of the ITCA executive committee and was co-chairman of the ITCA Indoor Singles Championship in Houston and chairman of the National Intercollegiate Indoor Tennis Team Championship in Madison, Wis., last winter.

KANDELL GETS SHUTOUT
For Post 76. Al Kandell, the former Princeton High School standout who has just completed a fine year as a freshman on the Trenton State baseball team, tossed an eight-hit shutout Saturday to lead Princeton Post 76 to a 2-0 victory over Broad Street Park Post 313. It was his first win of the season.

Post 76 was limited to four hits by losing pitcher Mark Iorio but Princeton managed to score both its runs in the second when third baseman Marc Adams doubled. Kandell, Keith Phox and Brent Robinson had the other three hits off Iorio.

Princeton is off to one of its better starts, the win raising its record to 4-1. The only loss has been a 2-0 shutout at the hands of Ewing Post 314.

TWO TIED FOR LEAD
In Women's Softball, Sweet Jersey Corn and Conte's Bar continue to set the pace in the Princeton Women's Softball League as both remain unbeaten.

Corn scored an easy 9-1 win over arch rival Koffee Kup with Missy Dungan and Clare Baxter driving in five of the runs. Dungan's two-run triple was the big hit.

Conte's defense limited the Pacers to just three hits en route to a 6-1 victory. Trinka Hommel with three hits led the balanced attack for the winners.

and 3, from Walter Hankin, senior and junior, and Dawes and Sweeney had eliminated Rob Hargraves and Don Stuart, 2 and 1.

Thompson and Myers had the distinction of winning their two matches by the widest margins, defeating Kester Pierson and Craig Davis, 7 and 5, and John Gianacaci and Larry McHugh, 5 and 4. On Saturday, the latter had gone to the 20th green in an uphill battle, edging Bill Starks and Bill Middlebrook, 1 up. Gianacaci and McHugh had come from behind by recording four birdies on the last seven holes of the match. The two teams tied the 19th hole with birdie 3s before a par won on the 20th green.

Steve Peters and Dick Embley won both their matches, but had to play only three opponents rather than four. They ousted Tom Brophy and Glenn Heins, 3 and 1, while Charlie Bardwell and Bert Edmunds were defeating Bob Cronin and Charlie McManus, 2 and 1. Next day, Bardwell was prevented from playing by illness and Edmunds took on Peters and Embley alone, losing 5 and 3.

The Zephyrs, losers of their first two games, came on to record their third straight win and pull up into third place with a 4-2 effort against Andy's Angels. Hits by Sharon McHugh, Gloria Turk and Bobbie Rawcliff gave the Zephyrs an early 4-1 lead and in the final inning a perfect peg to the plate by Linda Baldino to Tina Carnevale snuffed out an Angles' rally.

Ivy Inn won its first game of the year, trouncing winless P.I.T.S., 14-4, as Cathy Arcaro continued her torrid hitting with a triple, home run, and two singles. Cathy Cifelli also homered for the Inn.

nationally. By virtue of his number five ranking, Lapidus qualifies for All-American status under the rules of the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA).

A 19-year-old sophomore and native of Princeton, Lapidus won the Milwaukee Team Classic in January, and defeated Eddie Edwards of Pepperdine, Wesley Cash of Georgia and Chris Kashow of Oklahoma State at the Michelob Light Indoor Collegiate Team Championship in February. Lapidus shares his number-five ranking with Kevin Curren, a senior from the University of Texas, who defeated him in the finals of the Michelob Light Collegiate Tennis Championship in Austin shortly before the NCAA Championships.

The Michelob Light Standings, based on a system developed and administered by the ITCA, are computed by a formula that awards points to a player based on the level of competition he faces.

Others from the Princeton squad represented among the top 50 players in the country in the standings were Leif Shiras, number 16 with 147 points, and Steve Meister, tied for 40th with 106 points.

EAGLES TAKE LEAD

In PBVA League, The Eagles won a pair last week to remain the only undefeated team in the Princeton Youth Baseball Association. Post 76 and Roma Eterna are tied for second, one game behind.

The Eagles first romped past Century 21, 21-11, as Eddie Eccles and Michael Petrone combined for the win, each pitching three innings. Petrone and Andy Lippman each connected for triples while Michael Elliot doubled.

The Eagles' second win was against Engine No. 3. Eccles and Petrone again combined for the win. Petrone slammed a double and a triple and Elliot homered. Lippman and Brian Bittner also hit for the winners.

Carter Sharaf tripled for the losers. The game remained close until the last inning, when the Eagles scored three runs.

Despite their loss to Eagles, No. 3 picked up a win against Post 76 as winning pitcher Sharaf and Chris Tetzelli belted triples. John Stephancik doubled for the winners.

Post 76 then defeated Century 21, 17-5. Winning pitcher Scott Fisher hit three singles along with Robert

HOLE-IN-ONE WINNER (S): At the annual hole-in-one contest sponsored by the Llona Club at Springdale Golf Club, club pro Jim Hultgren (left) hit the ball 6½ inches from the cup, from 140 yards away. Since his is a professional, he relinquished the prize of a color television set to Dave Cromwell (center) who was second, 14½ inches away. A Township patrolman, Cromwell has been chasing the hole-in-one prize for a number of years. With them is the Lions' Tom Johnson, Hole-in-One Chairman.

Bosely and Eddie Perna who went 4-4, hitting three singles and a triple. Scott McNair turned slugger, slamming a home run, triple and double. Post 76 raked No. 3 for 19 hits. David Cassidy went 4-4 for Century 21, contributing three singles and a triple.

Roma Eterna won two, its first over the Elks, 13-7. Jack Zahner, Jon Abrahams, Marvin Trotman and Marc Nathan all hit singles for Roma. Michael Blaxill and Jimmy Sharp each stroked triples and Andrew Bing homered. The Elks power came from the bats of Andy Gellar, Joe Leddy and Shannon Grover.

Roma defeated Italian-American in a combined no-hitter hurled by Marvin Trotman and Jon Abrahams. Jimmy Sharp and Dino D'Angelo rapped triples and Jack Zahner doubled during Roma's 14-hit attack.

The Elks picked up their first win of the season over Engine Co. No. 1. Joe Leddy, Tim Leddy, David Ercolano, Marty Longman and Ken Bezillia all singled for the victors. In extra base hits, Torben Larson doubled, Peter Guthrie and Ravi Babu hit triples and Andrew Gellar homered also for the Elks.

Charlie Reeves, Richard DiBianco, Dave Santoro and John Soderburg clouted doubles, Levi Pervin and Fred Young supplied singles and Billy Scott and Jim Opperman slammed home runs for the losers. Scott hit connecting for the circuit twice.

Despite its earlier loss, No. 1 outlasted Italian-American.
